Appendix A:
Chronological-Topical Index to Future Prophecy

About the Chronological/Topical Index

This index is divided into two parts. Part 1 is a listing of future prophecies in chronological/topical order. Part 2 is a listing of the passages in Part 1, in biblical order. Both listings are keyed to the timeline illustration (Figure A-1, p. 247).

Part 1 is particularly useful when studying a specific topic or time period. Since the passages in Part 1 are grouped according to time and topic, finding other passages that relate to the same time or topic is simplified. Part 2 is helpful when studying a particular passage for which the reader needs to determine its chronological setting or to find cross-references for further study.

How to use Part 1

To find references to topics related to a particular event or period:

1. Locate the time period by scanning through the listing in Part 1 of this Index, or consult the Index Timeline (p. 247) to find the chronological tag ("A," "B," "C1," "C2," "D," "E") then lookup that tag in Part 1 of the Index. (Tags appear at the top of the timeline illustration.)
2. Once the appropriate section of the Index is found, additional references to the subject or time period will be listed under the same tag. (Be sure to check parent tags also.)

How to use Part 2

To find where the subject of a passage fits chronologically and topically:

1. Find the passage in Part 2 of the Index (passages are listed in biblical order).
2. Note the tag associated with the passage. This tag can be used to locate an event on the timeline. (When using the Index for this purpose, ignore any lower case letter at the end of the tag.)

To find cross-references for specific passages:

1. Locate the passage in Part 2 of this Index.
2. Note the tag associated with the passage. (Some passages deal with multiple topics and therefore have more than one tag.)
3. Use the tag to locate additional references in Part 1 of this Index. (Also check parent tags for additional information. For example: when researching C1v, also consult C1.)

Part 1 Chronological/Topical Listing

Use this listing to locate references to specific events or time periods. (Note: Subheadings ending with a lower case letter may not be in strict chronological order when compared to other subheadings ending with a lower case letter. Lower case letters appended to subheadings generally indicate topical groupings. Nevertheless, chronological integrity has been maintained as much as possible. A question mark following an entry indicates uncertainty as to the correct placement or applicability of the reference.) Although Christ's first advent and the inception of the church are past events, they are properly viewed as eschatological and are included here.
